Connecting Pont-d'Ouilly to Flers, this bucolic stage through the Suisse Normande area takes you beside the Noireau River, through a valley marked by steep sides, as far as Condé-sur-Noireau. You then leave the valley via a very steep track. Approaching the Mont de Cerisy, the véloroute becomes gentler on the calves as you head on to the town of Flers and its château.

The route

From Pont-d'Ouilly, you follow stretches on quiet roads shared with motorised traffic, going along the Noireau River up to Condé-sur-Noireau. Leaving Condé-sur-Noireau, the route is very steep. Then the way takes you along quiet but hilly roads up to Flers. This stage requires a fair amount of physical effort.
